| Hebrew | hebrew The Hebrew את word does not have a corresponding word in English. In Hebrew, it is a marker of the accusative, i.e. the word following it is the object of the sentence. It only ever occurs in conjunction with nouns associated with the definite article ה. Genesis 1:1 הַשָּׁמֶשׁ |
| ESV    | Light is sweet, and it is pleasant for the eyes to see the sun.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| NIV    | Light is sweet, and it pleases the eyes to see the sun.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| NLT    | Light is sweet; how pleasant to see a new day dawning.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
