| Hebrew | hebrew The Hebrew אתגאד word does not have a corresponding word in English. In Hebrew, it is a marker of the accusative, i.e. the word following it is the object of the sentence. It only ever occurs in conjunction with nouns associated with the definite article הַ. Genesis 1:1 שְׁמוֹ גַּד |
| ESV    | And Leah said, “Good fortune has come!” so she called his name Gad.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| NIV    | Then Leah said, “What good fortune!” So she named him Gad.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| NLT    | Leah named him Gad, for she said, “How fortunate I am!”                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
