| Hebrew | הַדִּיד אֶחָד תְּאִנִּים טֹבוֹת מְאֹד כְּתֵאֲנֵי הַבְּכֻרוֹת וְהַדִּיד אֶחָד תְּאִנִּים רָעוֹת מְאֹד אֲשֶׁר לֹא תֵאָכְלֶנָּה מִרָע |
| ESV    | One basket had very good figs, like first-ripe figs, but the other basket had very bad figs, so bad that they could not be eaten.  |
| NIV    | One basket had very good figs, like those that ripen early; the other basket had very poor figs, so bad they could not be eaten.   |
| NLT    | One basket was filled with fresh, ripe figs, while the other was filled with bad figs that were too rotten to eat.                 |

|     | One basket had very good figs, even like the figs that are first ripe: and the other basket had very naughty figs, which could not be eaten, they were so bad.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
