I've never been a practicing Christian. That changes this Sunday. I'll go to church for the first time this Sunday.

I am going to church for the second time in 21 years on Sunday. I started reading the bible last night. Thank you, Charlie

I'm a 19 year old man who still lives with his family. I still have my father, but now I'm scared for my whole family. But they won't silence me! Charlie, I will preach the gospel and follow in your footsteps. Rest in peace, my brother in Christ

I went to my local church Wednesday night. I just sat in the pew and prayed. And cried. I have never done that before. We are Charlie Kirk.

35, haven't been to church in 20 years. Going tomorrow. RIP Charlie ❤️ I feel so lost.

God bless everyone. Christ is King and all things are possible with him. And to all the ill-mannered comments, I'll take them with me to church and pray for you, too.

Ten years ago Charlie, and people like Charlie, people like Tom, they helped me turn my life around.

I was an alcoholic, a drug abuser, a thug, a criminal, frequently homeless and often the troublemaker.

Today I'm a clean man, a man of God, this November I'm welcoming my first child into the world.

I wouldn't be alive today if it wasn't for men like Charlie, never giving up on men like me.

My child owes you their life Charlie, and I thank God everyday for your work.

I've been thinking about going back to church. I haven't been since I was a teenager... We'll be going this Sunday. Good will prevail over evil. RIP Charlie. 🙏❤️
Tom, thank you so much for this song.
