| ESV | Whoever belittles his neighbor lacks sense, but a man of understanding remains silent.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| NIV | A man who lacks judgment derides his neighbor, but a man of understanding holds his tongue.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| NLT | It is foolish to belittle one's neighbor; a sensible person keeps quiet.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| LXX | μυκτηρίζει πολίτας ἐνδεῆς φρενῶν ἀνὴρ δέ greek δέ is a conjunction that can mean “but” or “and” or “also” or “moreover”. It is a word that is used very frequently in the New Testament, and is often unexpressed and not translated in English. φρόνιμος ἡσυχίαν ἄγει                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| KJV | He that is void of wisdom despiseth his neighbour: but a man of understanding holdeth his peace.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
